HONORABLE DAVID L. MACKEY DIVISION 1	BY: Cheryl Wagster Judicial Assistant DATE: April 5, 2011
---	---

The Court has considered the Defendant's Report To The Court dated April 4, 2011. The Court again will attempt to interpret the Court's March 16, 2011 Ruling.

In that Ruling, the Court gave the Defense time to request further redaction of the reports provided with that Ruling. The Court had already redacted the "Document Title" column to the point that the Court can find nothing objectionable in the release of the redacted "Document Title" descriptions. Out of an abundance of caution, the Court gave the Defense additional time to review the Court's redactions to insure that nothing had been missed.

Rather than provide the Court with specific concerns regarding the redacted descriptions of the "Document Title" column of the reports, the Defense suggests that the Court can simply redact the entire "Document Title" column until the Defense settles a "separate matter." The Court did not give the Defense that option.

Defense Counsel's choices are simple. Either tell the Court that they can find no further document descriptions that need redacting at this time or give the Court a report of the specific redaction requests.

The Court calculates the "twenty (20) days" from the Court's March 16, 2011 Ruling to end on April 13, 2011. Should the Court not receive specific redaction requests by that date, the Court will proceed with the release of the reports as set forth in the March 16, 2011 Ruling.
